PRECONFERENCE SEMINARS

Add value to your conference experience with these deep dives into hot topics. Learn from experienced instructors and engage in an interactive learning environment.

8:30 a.m. – Noon

Sound Financial Planning for Long-Term Stability

Utilities are under pressure to minimize rate impacts on customers while keeping the system reliable and planning for infrastructure replacement. What role do financial decision makers play in this scenario? Learn how to define revenue requirements and what other key targets help ensure a utility's long-term financial stability. Understand your utility's current financial position and identify areas for improvement while minimizing the impact of potential rate changes on customers. Learn how to successfully implement a plan to continue to meet (or work toward) defined revenue requirements and review guidelines that can help make those difficult financial decisions easier.

INSTRUCTOR: DAWN LUND, Vice President,
Utility Financial Solutions

1:30 – 5 p.m.

Trending Topics in Public Utility Accounting

Accounting standards for public power utilities are constantly evolving. Layer on federal infrastructure funding opportunities and the accounting implications, and it can be a challenge to keep up. Join this seminar to gain an understanding of Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) standards and grant funding opportunities that impact your utility operations. Topics will include the implementation of GASB 87 and how to navigate the complexities of the new lease standard; a fresh look at regulatory accounting and whether it still makes sense for your utility; and planning and preparation strategies to help you take advantage of federal ARPA and IIJA grants and related issues with long-term debt.

INSTRUCTORS: DOUG BALDESSARI, CPA, Partner, and BETHANY RYERS, CPA, MAS, Firm Director, Baker Tilly

1:30 – 5 p.m.

Learning to Lead: Pathways to Leadership for Results

Whether you lead people or projects, successful leadership requires a base-level understanding of the fundamentals of leadership. Review different leadership theories, identify your personal leadership style – and learn how to identify the styles of others to maximize your effectiveness – and get guidance on leading through influence and innovation in this thought-provoking class designed to help you develop your leadership skills and become more effective in advancing the organization you serve and obtain better overall results. Hear real-life examples from a retired public power executive and take away valuable lessons and tips to apply to your own work.

INSTRUCTOR: NILAKSH KOTHARI, CEO, Preferred Consulting LLC, and former General Manager, Manitowoc Public Utilities, Wisconsin

CLOSING GENERAL SESSION

Adaptability: The New Leadership Superpower

There is extraordinary contrast between the volume of rapid societal and technological change and the traditional, stable nature and culture of the utility industry. But as chaotic as our world may seem right now, there is an opportunity to re-imagine our work and our workplace for those open to learning.

To be successful, leaders and organizations must be able to craft and cascade productive communication, predict the realistic impact of change on their industry, AND develop a strategy to navigate change. Get practical, real world take-aways on how to succeed, and help your utility succeed, in these changing times.
