Powering Strong Communities

Connect with leaders who make critical purchasing decisions for their utilities

Public power executives view companies that belong to the American Public Power Association as supporters of and experts in their industry.

What is the American Public Power Association?

We're the voice of not-for-profit, community-owned utilities that power 2,000 towns and cities nationwide. We represent public power before the federal government to protect the interests of the more than 49 million [PC1]customers that public power utilities serve and the 93,000 people they employ. Our association advocates and advises on electricity policy, technology, trends, training, and operations. Our members strengthen their communities by providing superior service, engaging citizens, and instilling pride in community-owned power.

Why should my company become a member?

To increase sales and revenue, you need to know the right people. As an Association member, we'll connect you with decision-makers at community-owned utilities that:
