Ryan Pratt is a Principal and leads Ernst & Young LLP's forensic accounting practice in Houston, Texas. The focus of Ryan's practice is complex claims, compliance and monitoring and dispute resolution. He has over 24 years of experience managing complex federal claims and the measurement of the financial and economic impacts as a result of federal grants, business interruption, property damage and catastrophic events. Ryan has extensive experience in state and federal claims management, compliance and monitoring.

He has assisted clients in a variety of industries to manage the claims process. His recent experience includes handling some of the largest claims resulting from COVID-19, Hurricane Harvey, the Joplin Tornado, the Japanese quake, Thailand floods, Hurricanes Sandy, Ike, Omar, Katrina, Wilma, Fabian and the 2004 and 2005 Hurricanes. Ryan has worked extensively with states, subrecipients and policyholders to develop claims and grant management teams to respond quickly and effectively to crises including working with State and Federal agencies to facilitate the claims process for his clients. In addition to his claims experience, Ryan is experienced in assisting clients with the prevention, detection and mitigation of fraud waste and abuse.

Ryan has authored and led dozens of articles, books and presentations on a variety of business risk topics including business interruption, federal claims, managing global risk, supply chain risk, business valuation and disputes, and various forensic accounting issues.

Prior to joining Ernst & Young, Ryan worked for Arthur Andersen in Dallas, Texas. Ryan is a CFA® Charterholder, a member of the CFA Institute.
